OVINGTON BROS. CO.

Up to Snuff

THE CLAPP & GRAHAM CO.,

420 Madison Avenue.

A UNIQUE CHRISTMAS GIFT might be a tiny snuff bottle, which is really quite ornamental and need not be used for that for which it was originally created. It is of beautifully carved amethyst, the shaded colorings serving to bring out the cutting. Price $20.

OR ONE MIGHT PREFER TO CRYSTAL GAZE. A little crystal ball, gleaming and mysterious, set up on a teak wood stand is to be had for $10.

OVINGTON BROS. CO.

THOSE PAINTED THINGS seem to be a never-ending source of novelties. The newest, and a truly delightful one, is the portiere or curtain pin. ONE OF THE FINEST BLOUSES which is shown this season is, not very astonishingly, one of the simplest. It is hand-made entirely, of chiffon cloth, with fairly narrow vertical tuckings. A hand hemstitching is at each side of the centre buttoning, and the plain little white collar and cuffs are embellished with a bit of drawn work. Price, in all colors, including many pastel shades, $22.

CERTAIN BLOUSES have been greatly reduced, such as one of dark blue crepe chiffon, with high cape collar in back and high ribbon crossing in front. This is only $5.

Starting Low

OPPENHEIM, COLLINS & CO.

THE HIGH SHOE OF THE MOMENT is arranged so that in one way or another the hosiery shows through. The Oppenheim, Collins way is to have a boot that is a succession of straps from top to bottom, so that the boot is light for dancing and smart for semi-dress wear. So that no buttons mar the slim silhouette of the ankles, the boot slips on, aided by the elastic which forms the side supports. In dull kid or patent leather, $8.

LORD & TAYLOR.

ANOTHER METHOD of showing the hosiery is to scallop the boot at the vamp in a quaint lattice pattern. In bronze and in white glaze kid, $9.

LORD & TAYLOR.
